Heather Lowrey presented an overview of two programs that her Special Education (SPED) students can participate in at Clovis high School- Collaborative Mentoring and Unified Soccer. These programs combine SPED students and General Education (Gen. Ed.) students, giving them an opportunity to interact and learn from each other.

The Collaborative Mentoring class is composed of ½ SPED students and ½ Gen. Ed. students. Each Gen. Ed. student is paired up with a SPED student to support them in completing various art, community service, and school-wide projects. The benefit to both is to increase sensitivity, compassion, and general awareness of diversity on the campus. The bonus is often that the students find a path to education with many of them stating that they would pursue becoming a SPED teacher in the future.

Unified Soccer is a soccer team whose members are SPED students and Gen. Ed Students. Each CUSD High School has a unified Soccer team, and the Clovis High team is undefeated. The Gen. Ed. students on the team refer to themselves as peers and the SPED students as athletes. Peers coach the athletes and play soccer with them, developing skills and important relationships.

Six Gen. Ed. Students shared their experiences being in the Collaborative Mentoring class and on the Unified Soccer team. Each one spoke about how much they have learned from their SPED friends. They shared stories about their times playing, learning, and growing together. Each one said that they receive far more than they give when they spend time with their SPED friends.

Dr. Dille closed the meeting by acknowledging the amazing work that is being done to create awareness and increase sensitivity between Gen. Ed. students and SPED students on our campuses.
